THE SCOTTISH SOCIETY FOR NORTHERN STUDIES

is a Scottish-based group having much in common with the Viking Society for Northern Research. It was founded in 1968 to explore the inter-relationships between the Scandinavian, Celtic and Scottish cultures, and provides a forum in Scotland for specialists and enthusiasts of many disciplines to pursue their common 'northern' interests. Through its seminars, conferences and publications, the Scottish Society for Northern Studies seeks to encourage further exploration and research, locally throughout Scotland and beyond.
